THE EVENING STAR. WASHINGTON: THURSDAY ...... January 29, 1885 CROSBY S. NOYES..... Editor. - 71'V BUILDING

No Weekly Star this Week. Owing to the destruction of the plates from which the WEERLY STAR was to be printed to-day, as well as the matrices from which they were cast, the issue of that publication for the present week will have to be omitted. From the details given elsewhere of the destructive fire which occurred in THE STAR office this morning, it will be understood by its readers that this issue of the paper is brought out under many | COMMENCES TO-MORROW (TUESDAY), JANY and serious difficulties. It is, indeed, only by the friendly aid of professional brethren that it appears at all, and upon the machinery and appliances | Our Entire Second Floor Devoted to the Sale of so promptly tendered and generously offered we will be obliged to depend for some time to come. But the regular publication of the paper will not be interrupted, and certainly no effort will be spared to make each day's issue as complete and presentaable as possible. Necessarily, however, it will be impossible, unfil the mass of rubbish shall be cleared away, needed repairs made, and new material and machinery put in place and in operation, to reach the ordinary standard of excellence, either in the quantity of the matter given or the style in which it is presented. But even more serious than any imperfections of this class will be some unavoidable delay in printing and circulating the paper. All these obstacles will of course be set aside as rapidly as possible, and until they are overcome, and the mechanical and other departments of the paper placed in their normal condition, the reasonable indulgence of the public is

Our heartfelt acknowledgments are due for the universal expressions of kindly feeling and offers of ald in every possible direction that have poured in upon us to-day. Our neighbors, the Post, Republican, Critic, Sunday Herald, Sunday Gazette, National Tribune, Judd & Detwetter, Mr. Rufus Darby, Mr. Thomas Dowling and others were prompt in their tender of working force, presses, type, rooms, &c., and other expressions of good will have come in from so many quarters that our space would hardly be adequate to record them. Acknowledgments are also due to the firemen who worked so bravely in the rigors of the intense cold this morning to put out the fire that at one time threatened the entire STAR buildings.

A dynamite debate in the House, such as is threatened, would be about as unprofitable an episode as could be conceived. Under the rules it ! irwould be next to impossible to reach any result, for embroidery to match, 98c.; very cheap at $1.50. a vote could only be had by absence of objection, and, of course, there would be objection. Nothing would come of task, and the talk would be loudest from those who have the least to say. In the present crush of business it would be impossible to mature and act upon such a novel and important piece of legislation as that embraced in the Edmunds bill in the few days remaining of the session. A well-constructed bill, accompanied by a judicious report from committee put on the calendar and made matter of record, is all that can be expected from the present Congress.

400 This is not a winter to be trifled with. The people in Montreal, for instance, have been finding an annual profit in ice fancies; but they have had too much of it this year, a bilizzar i making genuine snow and ice hills in which there is no great fun.

Ove feature of special interest in the reports of the fighting in Egypt was the courage of the newspaper representatives in Gen. Stewart's little army. It is evident from the record of fatalities that these men were not content to chronicle the valor of their companions, but insisted on sharing their labors and peril. In the fight at Abu-Klea Col. Burnaby was killed in a hand-to-hand combat, and in the battle before Metemneh Mr. Cameron, of the Standard, and Mr. Herbert, of the Post, were both killed, while the correspondent of the Telegraph

Mr. Cleveland has declined, as he put it, to come to this city and "open an effice," but he is busily talking with those who brave the northern blizzards at this season to see him. Among his most recently invited guests are Speaker Carlisle and Mr. Randell. Between them the coming President ought to get at the correct de mocratic doctrine on - Une latter was nelle off

Mr. Hopkins believes in the manifest destiny of the telegraph pole; it must go. He has prepared a report on under-ground telegraphy as related to the service in government buildings, and finds that an underground system is feasible and advantageous, and will recommend that it be adopted hereafter as fast as practicable.

--Civil service reform seems to be making steady ous. The scope of the service increases and the progress in New York state. It has from the start had influential friends in that state, and they have showed themselves as wise and persistent as zealrules work more smoothly as practice perfects the system. Within the past year the principle of competition has been extended to court officers, to the clerical force employed by excise boards, and other classes. Many cities throughout the state have also applied the principle in their local offices. New York, it will be remembered, is the state Mr. Cleveland hails from.

The English are very foolish to let their excitement over the dynamite outrages carry them into a "No Irish need apply" polley. To do this is to almost compel the Irish to assume the responsibility of the crime, and hence to precipitate a race connict, the evils of which cannot well be estimated. Such acts of indiscriminating resentment are almost as mischievous in their way as the outrages themselves. They will alienate even the moderate and friendly element among the Irish, and intensify feelings also aly quite bitter enough.
